Dear Readers,

"The ability to collaborate and work as a team is the key to success."
- Patrick Lencioni

On behalf of the student community of SRIHER, I take immense pride in presenting this foreword for the fourth edition of Connexions - a student newsletter introduced in 2023 serving as a canopy gracefully embracing the undeterred hard work put forth by the Student Council and the Student Clubs in the past four months.

The ever-growing innovation in student club activities has undoubtedly been the key to student bonding and learning on campus. The plethora of talents brought to the surface by the council and clubs has led to curiosity in the students' hearts and minds, encouraging them to delve into their extracurricular interests. It is heartwarming to see students blossom and flourish in their fields of passion and interest alongside their core education.

From cultural displays to exercising compassion, our student clubs are nothing but a panoramic experience for the student community, enriching their zeal and enthusiasm. The student council has played an instrumental role in forming the team of board members for each club for 2024-2025 and facilitating the transition of club activities from the previous board.

I want to extend my warmest gratitude to the Chancellor of the University, Shri V R Venkatachalam, Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Uma Sekar and Pro Vice-Chancellor Dr. Mahesh Vakamudi for establishing such an exceptional environment for the students to nurture their learning and skills whilst exploring their interests.

I congratulate the student council of 2024-2025 for bringing out this excellent compilation of student activities and the student community for actively engaging in the achievements and events. May the light of enthusiasm shine more brightly as we further strengthen our harmony as a university, with these events serving as a bridge of opportunity and inspiration.

Warm regards,

Dr. Leena Dennis Joseph

EDITORIAL TEAM'S MESSAGE

Dear SRIHER Family,

We bring to you with a very excited heart, the fourth edition of SRIHER CONNEXIONS, a magazine that will capture the soul of our campus through stories of joy, inspiration, and connection. Imagine walking through pages filled with laughter of friends, sparks of new ideas, and pride of achievements together. This magazine is much more than just a newsletter, since it presents a bridge that connects all of us and has put together vivid events and moments lighting up SRIHER from July to October 2024.

From commitment from our Student Council, through the enthusiasm of several Student Clubs, we established avenues for friendship, creativity, and growth. There were monthly events that came to bring students together all across programs and faculties that gave everyone a chance to shine and embrace lighter moments amidst the bustle of academic life. The heartbeat of our community lies with the clubs, keeping up the spirit of collaboration and celebration month after month.

A huge thank you to our Dean of Students, Dr. Leena Dennis Joseph, and all our Associate and Assistant Deans - Students, whose constant support made these endeavors possible. This magazine reflects the warmth and dedication of faculty members, whose mentorship has been the backbone of every success we celebrate here. We hope you will find inspiration from these pages to venture into campus life and also to approach our Student Council members for any information.

Here's to every student who dares to dream, every club that celebrates creativity, and every faculty member who uplifts us along the way.
Happy reading and welcome to SRIHER CONNEXIONS!

Warm regards,
Editorial Team, SRIHER CONNEXIONS

BENEATH THE BEEEPING WIND

When the moon bleeds silver on the rotting stone,
In whispers of dread, the mansion calls you home.
With crumbling facades that sigh in despair,
It cradles dark secrets in its haunted lair.

The iron gate groans, a lament from the past,
Swinging open to shadows, where time's grip is cast.
Trees writhe like phantoms in the midnight gloom,
Their rustling limbs weave tales of impending doom.

A whisper drifts softly, like smoke in the night,
From corners obscured, where no soul finds light.
Haunting visions awaken,
An anguished whisper fills the air.

Lost souls wander, their fates intertwined,
Ominous echoes ensnare, cold and unkind.
Shallow whispers slither, serpents of fear,
Whispering malice, drawing you near.

Footfalls echo on stairs once kissed by the sun,
Yet when you glance back, you find you're not one.
The air thickens, taut with a suffocating dread,
As if the very walls are hungry for the living—dead.

So linger not long, for the night's grip is tight,
In this eerie mansion, shadows feast on fright.
Your breath may be taken, your spirit ensnared,
For once you step in, you may find you've been harmed.

In the silence that follows, will you wish to escape?
